THE SOUTHERN OUTRAGES.

Reports of the Committees Investigating the Danville and Copiah County Elections.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The majority report of the senate elections committee on the Danville riots declares it was premeditated for the purpose of raising a race issue and intimidating negroes; that the democrats prearranged the riot and endorsed it after it had occurred. Lapham, who prepared the report, introduced some telegrams which he claimed sustain the conclusion that it was the deliberate work of the democratic party.

THE NEGROES ENTIRELY BLAMELESS.

The committee finds no evidences that the negroes fired a shot until after the whites fired the general volley and that very few had weapons of any kind. The negroes were of all ages and both sexes, gathered unquestionably from church. The whites, on the contrary, were generally armed. The fire bell was rung, but there was no fire. On the contrary, it was a signal for a white militia company. Whites came rapidly from all directions, and arms were distributed to those who had none from shops and stores. The report concluded: The objects of the democrats in these efforts, raise a race issue, to alarm the blacks and excite the whites, was twofold. First, to intimidate colored voters, where they were strong, as in Danville; second, chiefly to produce such a frenzy of feeling in the state as would induce white electors to join with their own race and escape the contumely and reproach to which they would otherwise be subjected to for fraternizing politically with "niggers." It was made to appear that the blacks were offenders, while in truth the white democrats were a mob, in possession of the town, and no negro dared to make his appearance on the streets. The occurrence was one which caused rejoicing instead of regret among the democrats.

THE COPIAH COUNTY AFFRAY.

The recommendation made in the Copiah inquiry, that the basis of representation should be reduced when the right to vote was denied or abridged in a state, was adopted as a part of the report.

The minority report on the Copiah investigation dissents from the statements and conclusions contained in the report of the majority, and presents their own view of affairs framed from the testimony of reputable and credible witnesses examined by the committee. They express the opinion that the investigation was originated and conducted for the purpose of aiding the republicans in the approaching presidential canvass, by reviving stories of outrage and crime, which were so effectually used in former presidential campaigns, and to furnish excuse for rejecting the whole of Mississippi in the electoral college and thereby defeating, as was done in 1876, the clearly expressed will of the American people in the choice of a president. They refer to Eliza Pinkston, and ask who believes her to-day, and assert that this and other such tales having lost their potency the Danville and Copiah investigations were conceived and brought forth. They say the majority report evidently ignored and purposely discredited sworn testimony of most intelligent, trustworthy and reliable citizens of Copiah county, and gave full credence and belief to the statements of persons, some of whom were absolutely destitute of character for veracity, and others apparently too ignorant to understand and regard the obligations of the oaths taken by them.

THE KILLING OF MATTHEWS.

With regard to the killing of Matthews the minority quote from the testimony to show that it resulted from a personal quarrel between Matthews and Wheeler about politics, and that Wheeler was acquitted on a plea of self-defence.

In regard to the investigation proposed by the majority of the next election in Mississippi, the minority say it is a threat to disfranchise the people of the state of Mississippi in the coming presidential election, with a view of deterring citizens of that state from casting its electoral vote contrary to the party in power; that this most flagrant and abhorrent attempt to bulldoze the entire state, by threatening to disfranchise the people and destroy its autonomy, cannot be found in the annals of constitutional government. In conclusion the minority says: The duty of the undersigned is perhaps discharged by exposing the animus of the recommendation, but they feel justified in saying they ill understand the spirit or the temper of the American people who suppose they will again submit to the defeat of their choice for president, as they were in 1876. Neither an electoral committee or armed soldiers around this capital will prevent the installation of the man elevated to the position of president by the votes of his countrymen. The reproach brought upon our system of government by the occurrences which placed in the chief executive office of the government a man who had been defeated at the polls is too highly felt by the people of the country to justify the belief that they will tolerate such suggestion of their repetition, and the minority can but express their surprise at the temerity that volunteers, however covertly, a purpose so destructive to the hopes and honor of the country. The report is signed by Vance, Saulsbury, Pugh and Jonas.

PROCEEDINGS OF RELIGIOUS CONFERENCES.

Arrival of Another Lot of Recruits for the Mormon Church—Sullivan and Mitchell Arrange a Contest—Notes.

NEW YORK, May 27.—[Special.]—Yesterday's rumors of Tilden's illness are denied to-day, of course. The latest intelligence of Tilden is contained in the Tribune, in a statement that ex-Governor Lucius Robinson recently saw the sage of Greystone, who said while he felt gratified for the unanimity with which the democratic party favored his nomination, he did not think that at his time of life and in his physical condition he could properly undertake the responsibilities of the presidency. He could not, therefore, accept the nomination if it were tendered to him. Prominent democrats in Albany in Tilden's confidence confirm the substance of this statement; and say that a letter of declination has already been written.

Yesterday a call was made at Greystone for the purpose of verifying the report printed in a morning paper regarding the health of Mr. Tilden. After waiting a few minutes in the reception room Mr. Tilden himself came in, unannounced. He said that the report about his failing health was a pure fabrication, and utterly without foundation; that his health at present was better than it had been at any time during the past year, and that he had merely run down to Greystone for a few days, personally to oversee some improvements that he is making on the place. He said further that he expected to return to Gramercy park to-morrow.

GREENBACK NATIONAL CONVENTION.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27.—The attendance on the greenback national convention, which meets here to-morrow, is unexpectedly large. There are now about 500 delegates in the city, and the managers expect 200 more. The convention meets to-morrow at 11 o'clock, and all indications point to the nomination of ex-Governor Butler for president. There is a good deal of opposition to Butler, which is led by Solon Chase of Maine and George O. Jones of New York, but there is no probability that it will develop enough strength to defeat Butler. An attempt has been made to work up a boom for Jesse Harper of Illinois, and the Maryland delegation will vote for him, but the movement seems to have little strength. General West of Mississippi appears to be the unanimous choice for vice-president. General Tyler of Florida will be made temporary chairman and General Weaver of Iowa, permanent presiding officer.

FOR "SAMMY"—NOT FOR "STEPHEN."

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—The election of delegates in each of the forty-seven clubs of this city to the democratic state convention to be held at Stockton, California, was completed last night. In many of the clubs the contest was sharp. In one the final results were not known until after this morning. The following resolutions were presented by C. A. Buckley and adopted in all of the clubs.

Resolved, That we pledge our delegates to the democratic convention to be held at Stockton to vote for no delegate to the national convention who is not an open and avowed supporter of the nomination of Samuel J. Tilden, and, resolved, further, that it is the sense of this club that Justice Stephen J. Field is not now and has not been our choice as a presidential nominee.

PAYNE'S CHANCES.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The Sun says: "Henry B. Payne of Ohio is looming up grandly in the character of a possible and not altogether improbable successor to Mr. Tilden as the democratic candidate for the presidency. The only objection to Payne is found in the existence of the Standard Oil Co., which stood on the edge of bankruptcy on black Wednesday. If it should fail outright and Payne get the nomination he would stand a splendid chance of election."

The Australian Mail Subsidy.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The attention of H. H. Hall being called to the San Francisco dispatch about Australian subsidies, he said that assistance for the Australian mail service was expected from the United States government. There was no possibility of the service being carried on by the English line. The service was to-day held by American ship-owners, who would continue to hold it. Every merchant and manufacturer in the United States was interested in the service. American trade, since the mail service first opened in 1870, has increased tenfold. He expected Sir Henry Parkes, father of the Australian mail service, in New York shortly. Hall was formerly United States consul at Sydney, and having founded the line, a thoroughly familiar with the question of the subsidy.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—In regard to the statement, coming from San Francisco, to the effect that the maintenance of direct mail service between that city and Australia is threatened by the failure of this government to provide a subsidy, it was said at the postoffice department that the postoffice committee of the house of representatives, in accordance with the recommendation of Postmaster General Gresham, is understood to have prepared a measure providing for the continuation of the subsidy of $40,000 per ...

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

A CLEVER ROGUE GOES TO JAIL.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—[Special.]—The Press says: "Pelter Tatro was sentenced yesterday in the United States district court to two years for personating a pension agent. He has probably figured under more aliases and been engaged in more skillful frauds than nine-tenths of the cleverest rogues in or out of jail. He had five wives, one of whom, a Miss Stewart, he won by representing himself as a rich Californian, and induced her to sell a farm in Ohio and start with him for California. At Chicago he borrowed the money of her. She never saw him afterward. Tatro swindled hundreds in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Indiana, New Jersey and Illinois, pretending to be a commissioner of pensions. Fully five hundred pensioners paid him fees, ranging from $1 50 to $20, to secure for them an increase, and the clever old rogue was enabled to live in clover wherever he went.

TELLER PLEADS GUILTY.

ST. LOUIS, May 27.—When the case of Prentice Teller, the express robber, was called in the criminal court this morning his lawyers announced themselves as ready to proceed. The indictment was then read to the prisoner and he was asked to plead. To the astonishment of the court Teller answered, without a moment's hesitation: "Guilty, your honor." There was a sensation succeeding this, but presently Judge Van Wagoner turned in his chair, ordered the prisoner to rise and sentenced him to five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. This is the full penalty of the law for grand larceny.

TERRIBLE CONDITION OF AFFAIRS.

ALBANY, May 27.—The state board of health reports a terrible condition of affairs in the cow stables at Blissville, Long Island, near New York city. Pleuro-pneumonia exists in all the stables. Dying cattle are milked and then killed, and the carcasses smuggled into New York and Brooklyn and sold for food.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Colonel O. B. Warring, who keeps the picnic grounds at Dutch Kills, near Long Island City, shot his brother-in-law, George E. Freund, last night, instantly killing him. There was apparently no provocation for the deed.

NATIONAL HORSE SHOW.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The second annual meeting of the National Horse Show Association opened to-day in Madison Square garden. Prizes for stallions 4 years old and over were awarded as follows: Syletan, imported bay, sixteen hands, 9 years old, owned by the earl of Aylesford, Packington hall, Coventry, England; Lyndon Tree, imported from Sr. A ban's stables and owned by U. S. Grant, Jr., was awarded the second prize. The stallion Voltmeter was declared winner of the first prize offered for trotting stallions 15 years and over.

THE PRIZE RING.

SULLIVAN AND MITCHELL WILL SPAR.

NEW YORK, May 27.—[Special.]—Sullivan and Mitchell have entered into an agreement to meet in Madison Square garden, the latter part of June, or early in July, to box four rounds, according to the Marquis of Queensbury rules, with soft gloves. The gate receipts will be divided, the winner to take 65% and the loser 35%, per cent., after the expenses are paid. Sullivan told Mitchell that he hoped he would spar with him at his benefit in Boston, July ., and Mitchell said he would. It was also said that Al. Smith will hire the Madison Square garden for a week, and hold a grand tournament, the wind-up every night to be a bout between Sullivan and some of the champions, who have been numerous around the city during the tour of the champion. Sullivan left for Boston last night.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

What the Papers Think of Grant's Action in the Matter.

FISH MODIFIES HIS RECENT ACCUSATIONS.

Eno Still Avoids Arrest—The Penn Bank Suspension Being Investigated—Mrs. Grant Sells Some Property.

NEW YORK, May 27.—[Special.]—The evening Graphic, of a democratic tendency, says: "We believe it will be found, whatever Fish or anybody else may say, that General Grant never wrote a letter in which he intimated that he had either secured or had to do in any way with government contracts."

The Telegram, under the head of "Plain Words—A Cause for All the Facts," says: "The letters printed this morning contain only a part of the truth. General Grant's reputation belongs to the nation. In this miserable enigma of speculation, deceit and knavery 50,000,000 people are faithfully interested in just one thing and in nothing else, viz: That General Grant's character has been besmirched by treachery and falsehood, and not by any act of his own."

The Mail and Express says of the letters: "These are all the written proofs in General Grant's hand that Fish can offer tending to impute to the general any sort of knowledge of Ward's wild swindles or most improbable and ridiculous lies about army contracts. Bearing in mind the date, July 6, 1882, and the fact that more of Ward's wholesale lying and stealing belonged to the latter period, and it is just to Grant to give him the benefit of these presumptions, first, that the failure to produce any letters from General Grant dated since July 6, 1882, show that no such letters were sent; and second, that the absence of knowledge on the part of General Grant of what his partners were really doing. Until something more definite and later proof is produced the presumption in favor of General Grant will be maintained.

Fish's counsel, Edwin B. Smith, says the letters that passed between the two showed clearly that General Grant had been misled by Ward. "I have no desire to say anything or give any interpretation to this correspondence that is in the slightest degree prejudiced to Grant, but I will only say that Fish gave to these letters from Grant such construction as induced him to increase the discounts of the firm of Grant & Ward, for the purpose of filling government contracts, to which Fish had referred in his letter to Grant."

General Grant declined to be interviewed on the subject to-day.

THE LAMB AS USUAL THE VICTIM.

The Commercial says: "Now that some of the letters are published it appears that Fish's interpretation of them was colored by his wish to save himself, and the prospect is that when the whole correspondence shall be given to the public its only effect will be to show more clearly than ever that the order of nature has not been reversed, and that the lamb, not the wolf, has been the victim. He has apparently vindicated himself against the charge of joining Ward in concocting the story about contracts which had absolutely no foundation. That Grant should have been deceived by Ward to the extent of supposing the firm to be maintained in great prosperity by government contracts which had absolutely no existence except in Ward's imagination, is something the public will hear with painful surprise. It will, too, try even General Grant's warmest friends greatly to learn that he was willing to participate, or assist others in participating, in contracts with government of which he was once the honored head, from which it was possible for the contractor to make 120 to 240 per cent per annum on such articles as hay and o ...

The Evening News, John Kelly's organ, says: "Grant is about as unsafe a man to rely upon in matters of speculation as could be found outside of a lunatic asylum. He seems to be peculiarly fitted to be in politics the creature of designing politicians, and in business the dupe of knaves. He had no right to drag his laurels into this filthy hole. The country has no right to interpose his military record and his fame between him and justice."

FRED GRANT'S SCHEDULE.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Individual schedules in the assignment of Frederick D. Grant and Jesse Grant to James McNamee was filed in court to-day. The schedule of Frederick D. Grant shows the following: Debts and liabilities amount to $2,105,066, made up as follows: Creditors other than preferred, $920,300; creditors preferred, $243,966; contingent liabilities, $10,000; par value of securities borrowed from Grant & Ward, $1,140,800; assets, nominally worth $1,039,013; actual worth, unknown.

Among the creditors preferred are Ulysses S. Grant, $5000; Mrs. Fred. D. Grant, $6000; no security. The schedules in assignment of Jesse R. Grant show debts and liabilities of $93 429, and assets nominally of $131,25 ...

FISH MODIFIES HIS CHARGES AGAINST GRANT.

NEW YORK, May 27.—President Fish now says that he did not mean to charge that General Grant had any guilty knowledge of fraud in contracts, but simply intended to say that the letters received from General Grant were of such a tenor as to warrant any one in having confidence in the representations made by Ward. John D. Fish says his father regarded that the accounts of a number of persons lately operating on the wrong side of the oil market have been overdrawn to the extent named. The directors who furnished this information state further that the account of a prominent oil dealer was overdrawn $97,000. These two accounts make an overdraft of $337,000, or $7000 in excess of the entire capital and surplus of the bank. The directors have appointed a committee to employ experts to go over the books, and report as speedily as possible.

BANK FAILURE AT HOT SPRINGS.

HOT SPRINGS, May 27.—The Hot Springs national bank has closed its doors, owing to a run, caused by the reported absence of its president, Andrew Brown. The liabilities are $40,000. This afternoon a warrant was issued in Hot Springs for the president's arrest charged with falsifying the bank's accounts, but he could not be found. One of the directors says that the bank's assets, if properly handled, will pay all depositors without assessment, but will leave the stockholders nothing. The Arkansas Valley bank is all right.

According to their statement he knocked her down in the pinioning room, and choked her till her face was livid, in order to stop her screaming. London papers generally condemn the exclusion of the press, and say this disgraceful scene furnishes another and quite sufficient reason for the dismissal of the drunken brute, Binns, from his office of official hangman.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Tilden never was that man physically who caused the belief that he was strong of constitution. Ten years ago he was as feeble in appearance as he is now. Chief Justice Taney always had the same style. When the latter was a young lawyer a man visited him with the idea of becoming a client, but retreated with the belief that Mr. Taney would not live long enough to see the case through. Afterward Mr. Taney saw the burial of the grandchildren of the gentleman.

Young Bowman Cash has fallen as falls the brave, riddled with bullets, but having caused a creditable number of the minions of the law to furnish a sacrifice to his manes. In his brief but glorious career he had killed a number of men, and single handed sustained a warfare with the state of South Carolina for several weeks. Although his friends may lament, they may feel that he has done enough for honor, and that if he had lived he might possibly have degenerated into a law-abiding citizen, to the discredit of his race and fame.

When the final estimate of the capacity of the leaders of the confederacy is made, the name of Judah P. Benjamin will rank the highest, perhaps among its civil statesmen. His ability in statesmanship by no means compared with its military genius, and there was a decided disappointment that its political leaders who had taken such a prominent part in the debates in congress were so inefficient in executive administration. But the talents of southern statesmen had been chiefly exhibited in fiery oratory and political management, through which they had obtained the favor of their constituencies, and their share in the government had been more one of aggression in behalf of slavery than in business relations with public affairs. At any rate, there was a conspicuous failure when they undertook the task of creating a government and administering its practical affairs, and the lack of executive capacity was not to be supplied by affluent eloquence and enthusiastic denunciation.

Mr. Wm. H. Hagadorn died at his residence, near Anacortes, a few days ago, aged 61 years. Deceased was a native of New York, born June 17, 1822. Mr. Hagadorn came to the Pacific coast in 1854.

Seattle Chronicle: In Whatcom county the county commissioners selected the grand and petit jury for June, and following this county, they have "oiled the panel" with an equal representation of women and men.

Last week as Carl Capps was plowing in a field near Olmstead's ferry, Yakima county, he turned up a human skull and other bones belonging to a human skeleton. What may be the history of these shrineless bones is involved in mystery.

Last Thursday evening a man named Marion Sill, while felling a tree in the logging camp of James Long, on the Stillaguamish, was struck on the head and side by a limb broken off by the falling tree, receiving a severe scalp wound and having two ribs broken. It is thought Sill will recover.

Dayton Chronicle: The weather is much cooler than it has been for some time, and the frequent light showers are helping the growing grain wonderfully. Grain between Dayton and Pomeroy is not injured yet, but if the dry spell had continued much longer the damage would have been very great. The salvation of the country is a good rain.

Walla Walla Journal: The man Sylvester, charged with being the leading spirit in the firing of the town of Weston, was brought before the committing magistrate of that place Saturday, and in default of bonds to the amount of $2000, was remanded to the county jail at Pendleton to await action of the grand jury. Damick has been lost sight of, and cannot be found, but a thorough search is being made for him.

The Snohomish Eye says that Eagle Harbor is about to experience a boom. The Lyons (Iowa) Mill Company has purchased the site for a mammoth sawmill on the west side of the harbor, about a mile and a half from Port Blakeley. B. Dunn, one of the members of the company, has already been engaged in surveying the site and harbor. The machinery of their mill at Lyons will probably be shipped to the Sound some time this season. Owning large tracts of timber land, and being men of practical experience in the lumber business, the company will conduct it upon the most thorough and systematic scale.

It is not improbable, says the Whatcom Reveille, that a company will be organized and duly incorporated with a paid up capital of several thousand dollars, for the purpose of prospecting for and developing the petroleum resources that are believed to exist in this county. The indications of coal oil are much better here than in any other portion of the United States outside of Pennsylvania, and until an effort is made to develop it, it will profit us nothing. It is understood that parties are now on the bay for this purpose, and that they are men who have had the benefit of practical experience in the oil regions of Pennsylvania.

A fatal accident came near occurring the other day near LaConner. Ed Slosson and Tom Cooper were engaged in digging a well on the premises of Thomas Lindsley. Cooper was working in the well and Slosson was engaged in hoisting the dirt out by means of a windlass and wooden bucket. The bucket was an iron bound one, and while hoisting away the bail broke at one side, letting it drop. At this instant Slosson yelled to Cooper, who stepped aside just in time to receive a glancing blow from the bucket on the side of the head and shoulder. He would undoubtedly have been killed had he received the blow squarely on the head, as the bucket with its load was of considerable weight and had a fall of about eighteen feet. Other than a few severe bruises Cooper received no hurt.

From the Yakima Record of May 19 it is learned that the camp of the surveying party is now about two miles below Yakima on the north side of the river. They have found a very good line on that side all the way up to their camp from where they crossed the river below Prosser falls. They will survey a crossing near their camp and another in Union gap or near the mouth of the Ahtanum. They will also run a line across the hills into Moxee, and thence around the hills intersecting the survey already made through North gap into Selah valley. This work is doubtless for the purpose of developing all the possible routes by the Natchess and Yakima in connection with the line they are running on the north side of the Yakima below Union gap.

At the camp of Charles Jackson, on Skagit river, twenty-six men and ten yoke of oxen are employed and the amount of lumber they are putting in is ...

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 28, 1884.

NO TIME FOR INDIFFERENCE.

It must be borne in mind that Monday's election is to be much more than a local affair, and any republican who cares for his party will do well to regard his duty as of the very first importance. It is a human failing to get indifferent as to this or that man on the ticket; and it is not excusable, it is something that can not be helped, but it will never do to pretend to be a republican and at the same time lay back indifferently and let this election stand in danger of going wrongly.

Probably, if the truth could be fully appreciated, right here where we ought to think most about it, it would be that many prominent republicans to the eastward of us are anxiously watching this election—more anxiously than some of us. The United States senate is too closely drawn as between the two parties to run the risk of fooling around in a close state like Oregon, especially this year. We have the necessary republican votes to accomplish three very desirable things—to carry the county, to carry the state, and to insure a republican majority in the next United States senate. To state this ought to be sufficient to convince every republican voter that it is no time for indifference or for listening to the trifling voices of quack politicians who try to make out that there is a ring against which are opposed some extra-virtuous candidates. This is precisely the wrong year to be fooled, or to give way to indifference. There is too much at stake as a republican state and nationally.

A CONVENTION REMINISCENCE.

The little "spat" between Bristow and Wayne McVeagh recalls one, if not two, prominent public names which had been almost forgotten. McVeagh was a sort of politician by marriage, though he never trained with the stalwart Pennsylvania family of his wife. He came into public notice as one of the famous Louisiana commissioners in the Hayes-Tilden deadlock, landed in the cabinet as a representative of the George William Curtis school of politics, and went out, believing, with many others, that he had made little headway with his peculiar views. He is a quiet and thorough man, who will have things his way or he will not have them at all, so, of course, he was not a strong man in the cabinet. He instituted the star route trials, which, in themselves, may serve to perpetuate his memory, if they go on perpetuating themselves, as they bid fair to do. But McVeagh is a man who stuck closely to his reform ideas, went out of office with them, and will be content to remain out of public life until he can take the same ideas back with him. In his letter to Bristow he wrongly puts up Arthur as embodying all that was ever objectionable in the worst of his friends, yet he is bitterly consistent and hits Bristow some hard licks for the political shifts he has made. Bristow is a very different order of man. He was a different order of reformer, and now he reappears in public life only to get a crack on the head as soon as it appears sufficiently above the surface to hit effectively. In 1876 he was briefly heroized. Conkling, Cameron and Grant have pretty much gone by the board since then; but though gone they are not forgotten. They have been seen or heard from frequently, as they were before. Not so in Bristow's case. He had pretty much dropped out of sight and was well nigh forgotten until this McVeagh letter made prominent the fact that he spoke at an Arthur meeting in New York. He has been growing fat as a corporation lawyer, since his memorable fizzle at Cincinnati eight years ago, trying to drown his sorrows in the flowing pocket-book; and, while no one can say his opinion as to Arthur is not a sound one, many who remember the figure he cut in Grant's cabinet, working up a nomination boom for himself at the expense of his political creator, will laugh at the figure he cuts now, and chuckle again at the crack on the head he gets from his fellow-reformer McVeagh. Bristow sprang into prominence through the assiduous working of all the tricks known to an adroit forwarder of self, with about as little behind it all as ever politician stood upon, and this accounts for his drop into oblivion. It has occurred to others besides McVeagh that the monstrous evils of the whisky ring were not, possibly, what was keeping Bristow awake o'nights, and it will occur to them now that this recent side entrance into political life will probably end like his attempt to get into the Union club. There never was another candidacy so forced before a convention as was that of Bristow eight years ago, and it will be a long time before anybody will care to repeat the experiment. The obscurest name mentioned as possible of prominence at Chicago is better known than was the Kentucky reformer's before his appearance, and could not be forgotten as his was immediately afterwards. We can thank McVeagh for reviving it as a convention reminiscence, and in recalling it, the incident may be used to emphasize the mutability of political greatness in this country. Lists of prominent names before and after each national convention would make a study interesting to political gossips, even if serving to point no useful lesson.

The New York Evening Post estimates that the aggregate shrinkage of market values in the whole list of stocks and bonds during the last thirty days was three hundred million dollars, and the estimate is probably not far out of the way. The loss on fifteen of the most active stocks was about $70,000,000, the 24 per cent. decline on the $60,000,000 of Union Pacific stock alone amounting to nearly $15,000,000, while the other shrinkages were: Western Union $8,000,000, Central Pacific $7,000,000, St. Paul, Reading and Northwestern $5,000,000 each, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Lake Shore and Louisville and Nashville $4,000,000 each, Missouri Pacific, and Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis $3,000,000 each, and Illinois Central, Canadian Pacific and Lackawanna $2,000,000 each. It is evident that there could have been no shrinkage if former rates were the real worth of the properties.

The president of the American Medical Association acknowledges that the reason for the law which prevented an allopathic physician from consulting with an homoeopath has ceased. To-day the homoeopathic physician is an educated man, who, as to learning and success, is the peer, so far as the layman can judge, of his elder brother, the allopath. But this does not quite cover the case. Exigencies arise when the first person who possesses any knowledge of anatomy or physic is called. It is the duty of the regular physician to avail himself of all the knowledge the first comer has attained, as of all that he has done in behalf of an intelligent treatment of the patient. The professional contempt for the quack is natural and commendable, but the standing and worth of the physician does not depend upon his isolation in the moment of peril from the "herb doctor" or the "natural bonesetter."

The Mail and Express thinks the people have had enough of blind pools, and that they will insist more than ever upon having a knowledge in detail of the business with which they are connected. A great many directors and stockholders of banks, it says, are virtually in blind pools, being almost totally ignorant of the affairs of the institutions in which their fame and fortune are invested, and the recent financial crash, from which the city of New York is so fortunately recovering, must certainly convince even the stupid that the blind pool method in banking the country has had quite enough.

In a New York dispatch the statement is made, "Politicians say Gorham will represent Conkling at Chicago." When one thinks how little there is for Conkling to do at Chicago, the thought follows that Gorham never before had so "soft" a job of all the representing of somebody else he has ever done.

THE PARTY FORMING.

The Million, a revenue reform paper just started in Iowa, hopefully says: "There is a democratic party forming in this country which will have some stability and homogeneity about it. There won't be any Randalls in it, laughing at its defeats. They will be beheaded, as the Morrison bill was." The trouble with the democratic party is that it lacks unselfish leaders. There is no doubt that a majority of the people in this country are really democrats, but they are not the kind that the name now designates in the political sense. They are the men who would like to have the government administered economically, but not meanly, and every citizen given the best possible chance. The democratic party has had issues enough thrust upon it within the past few years to give it the control of the government, if it had honestly adopted them and earnestly carried them out. The present house of representatives has had the opportunity to pass a few useful measures of great value to the people, but it has wasted its time in showing "how not to do it," and the prospects are that this policy will be pursued to the end of the session. There has been a general demand for a postal telegraph system, which will supply the whole country with cheap service and place all men on a level in the transaction of business by the wire. No measure has been before congress lately of so much importance as this, but the leaders of the house seem not to appreciate the fact, or they are so controlled by the Western Union that they cannot serve their constituents and the country.

There has never been a time when a national bankrupt law was more urgently demanded by the business interests of the country than now and there never has been a better or more generally approved bill than that which the senate passed some time ago. It guarded the interests of every honest business man. It is needed to prevent and defeat the rascally preference of creditors, the assignment to confidential clerks or relatives, the provision for "a rainy day," and other favorite methods by which dishonest men cheat their creditors. The country needs such a bankrupt law as a moral safeguard to maintain credit which is largely dependent upon public confidence in the honesty of men. When a failure occurs now it is asserted, and accepted as a matter of course, that the bankrupt has put enough out of the reach of his creditors to enable him to live sumptuously and begin again when he chooses. Nobody expects that a man who owns half a million dollars will pay his debts unless he chooses or that a man or concern will fail for that amount without having enough in some woman's name and right to make life easy. This is the theory and practice of modern business men. A well administered bankrupt law would break up this rascality. But the democrats in the house refuse to give us such a law. The opposition to this important and much needed measure was led by Samuel J. Randall, and the disappointment of the country is charged up against the party in which it is possible for him to be a leader. Other instances will readily occur where the democrats have apparently gone out of their way to escape doing something for the benefit of the whole people. Its course on the tariff question is too familiar a story to need repeating, and all these failures are hastening the formation of a true democratic party which will have "some stability and homogeneity about it," such a party as the republican party was when it was first organized to secure equal rights to all. The party which is forming may be the reformed republican party, for the republicans, as a mass, are more truly democratic than the party which is dominated by aristocrats in the southern states, and by patronage and the saloon in the north. The only independents we hear of are republicans, men who stand as Luther did, upon conscience, who are not to be deceived by a fallacy, nor bribed by an office. There are thousands of them in the state of New York and in every Northern state there are many who have not bowed the knee to the Baal "Success." These men are the hope of the country. They may prove to be the nucleus around which a new progressive and purified party will be formed, which will attract the support of all intelligent and conscientious voters.

THE VANISHING BARBARISM.

Notwithstanding the fact that a large portion of the southern people are little better than savages underneath their bland exterior, there are many evidences that they are improving, and the career of such a man as Bogan Cash, the South Carolina outlaw who has just been shot, the acquittal of Wheeler the Mississippi bully who assassinated Matthews on account of his politics, and the public sentiment in Kentucky to which we have referred should be taken as the expiring efforts of barbarism as it yields to the irresistible force of advancing civilization. The Greenville (S. C.) News is one of those rural papers which often best reflect the popular feeling of a state. In a recent issue it declared its firm conviction that "to-day ninety-nine of every hundred southern men believe that the emancipation of the slaves was the greatest blessing the south has ever received and the best thing that could possibly have been done for her." It thus proceeded to tell why: "It made the white people a manly, self-reliant, independent, democratic and united race. Slavery was fast enervating them and dividing them into hostile factions and classes. Labor, as the badge and province of the slave, was brought to contempt; when millions of white people of all classes were forced to become laborers, labor became honorable and is to-day our strength and motive power." The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, one of the leading papers in "the empire state of the south," quotes this notable deliverance, and admits that it is correct. It points out that the rational course for the south to have pursued before the war was to accept gradual voluntary emancipation with equitable compensation by the federal government—a plan which it says was feasible, but did not meet the views of the dominant politicians. Recalling the misery brought upon the section by "the fiery, eloquent, unwise spirits whom it followed into rebellion, it draws the wise conclusion that "the south should be warned to avoid, in future, the visionary orators who stand in the way of her gradual material development."

John C. New and John A. Martin are fixing up the immense hall at Chicago for the convention, their main trouble being to provide for keeping out the newspaper men who have no right there. The newspaper men of Chicago can help them, let us hope so that the space between the president of the convention and the delegates will not be so great that a voice cannot reach across. This was the case four years ago, when bogus newspaper men had half the room set aside for journalistic work.

A LIBERAL EDUCATION.

President Eliot, of Harvard, urges the primacy of the sciences and English in a liberal education. He says:

> The first subject which, as I conceive, is entitled to recognition as of equal academic value or rank with any subject now most honored is the English language and literature. When Greek began to revive in Europe, English was just acquiring a literary form; but when Greek had won its present rank among the liberal arts Shakespeare had risen, the English language was formed and English literature was soon to become the greatest of modern literatures. How does it stand now, with its immense array of poets, philosophers, historians, commentators, critics, satirists, dramatists, novelists and orators? It cannot be doubted that English literature is beyond all comparison the amplest, most various and most splendid literature which the world has seen, and it is enough to say of the English language that it is the language of that literature. Greek literature compares with English as Homer compares with Shakespeare, that is, as infantile with adult civilization. It may further be said of the English language that it is the native tongue of nations which are pre-eminent in the world by force of character, enterprise and wealth, and whose political and social institutions have a higher moral interest and greater promise than any which mankind has hitherto invented. To the original creations of English genius are to be added translations into English of all the masterpieces of other literatures sacred and profane. It is a very rare scholar who has not learned more about the Jews, the Greeks or the Romans through English than through Hebrew, Greek or Latin.

LIABILITIES OF AN EXPRESS COMPANY.—The case of Nelson Bennett against the Northern Pacific Express company was called yesterday morning in the state circuit court. Messrs. Williams, Durham and Thompson appeared for the plaintiff and McNaught and Mallory for the defendants. The jury empaneled were Hugh Farry, John Powell, G. J. Ross, John Mack, M. Beno, Robert Christian, T. J. Tingrove, George Tuttle, E. C. Fellows, R. G. Crihte, A. J. Harkins and William Gruner. The suit, as its from the amount of money involved—$18,000—is an important one as inquiring into the liabilities of an express company for property entrusted to their agents. A brief statement of the circumstances which gave rise to the suit is as follows: In January Larrabee, a banker in Deer Lodge, advised Ladd & Tilton to send $18,728 to Ainsworth, Washington territory, for Nelson Bennett. Ladd & Tilton put up the package of money and forwarded it by the Northern Pacific express company to Ainsworth, as requested. E. E. Johnson, the agent of the company received the money and put it in his safe, from which it was taken the next night. No trace of the money or of the thief who took it has since been discovered. The direction on the package was to "the agent of the Northern Pacific Express Company at Ainsworth," and therefore when Bennett claimed his money at the hands of the company they asserted that they delivered the money as directed and of course after that could not be responsible. Bennett brought suit and the question to be decided now is, did Johnson receive the money as the company's agent or as a private individual? In other words, are they or is he alone responsible for the loss of the money? Witnesses for the plaintiff who testified were the plaintiff himself, Theo. P. Wilcox, W. W. Bost and W. J. Footner, nothing with any particular bearing upon the question at issue being developed. Then the plaintiff's attorneys endeavored to introduce as evidence a deposition of the agent, to which the defense objected; with argument on this point still pending, court adjourned for the day.

CONCERNING PROTECTION OF SHAD.—Several persons speaking in regard to an item concerning shad which appeared in these columns yesterday, expressed the opinion that measures should be taken to protect the young shad in the Columbia. The fish were originally planted in California waters where they have increased and thrived wonderfully. In the Sacramento shad are now caught weighing six to eight pounds, and even larger. The shad in the Columbia have wandered here from San Francisco bay and should be protected till they have attained their growth, when it will be found that a six pound shad is quite a different fish from the shadlets now sent to this market. It seems that the size of the mesh of salmon nets is regulated by law but there is no regulation in regard to the distance apart of the slats or bars in the traps used for catching salmon, and which are consequently placed so close together that whatever enters them leaves hope behind, all the same as the infernal regions. Will the honorable member of the legislature from Clatsop county look into this matter and give it all needed attention at the next legislature?

ADVENTURE WITH A CAYUSE.—An employe of the stables at the corner of Ash and Third streets had an adventure with a bucking cayuse yesterday afternoon. He jumped on the animal in the stable, having nothing on it except a halter, and the vicious brute at once put its nose between its knees and started for the street, as there was not room in the stable to throw the victim high enough. As soon as the animal saw daylight overhead, and nothing between its rider and the cerulean firmament, it commenced bucking, and when it got a good ready it threw the young man upward. He would now have been gyrating in the vicinity of the pole star, had he not kept a firm hold of the halter rope, which was the only tie that held him to earth. The cayuse was so mad that when the man came down it rushed at him and struck him in the pit of the stomach with its knee, knocking the wind completely out of him, and when he lay down to let it run it again the vicious brute jumped on his legs, and with one of his hoofs cut through the leg of his pantaloons and inflicted a gash on his knee. However, the young man pluckily clung to the halter and finally mastered the brute.

ORCHESTRAL UNION CONCERT.—Tuesday evening of next week the Orchestral Union will give its last concert for the season of 1883-84. There will be three soloists and six solos. Miss Idabelle Haughey of Vancouver will sing a selection from "La Sonnambula" and a Bedouin love song, composed by Mr. Charles W. Coombs, formerly of Vancouver, and well known here. Miss Egbert will play Sonata Pathetique by Beethoven, and an allegro by Weber. Mr. Werbe, a cultured Danish musician, who happens to be visiting here, will give one solo on the clarionet, and another on the basset-horn. He is reported to be an artist of great ability. Four of the best numbers played by the orchestra during the season will complete the programme, which promises to be very attractive.

SENT TO THE INSANE ASYLUM.—Daniel Farris and S. L. W. Duggan, who have been inmates of the county jail for some time, were yesterday examined as to their mental soundness and were both adjudged insane. The commitment papers have been made out, and both men will be taken to the asylum at Salem to-day. Farris is about 29 years old, a native of New York, and now almost an imbecile. He fears imaginary persons, and was arrested for trying to kill a man, who he claimed was following him with murderous intent. Duggan is similarly afflicted, only his fears are all of women, one of whom he tried to kill about a week ago. He is 49 years old, a native of France, and has been a victim of the opium habit five years.

NOW CHARGED WITH LARCENY.—S. Dobyan, who is charged with vagrancy, had a trial in the police court yesterday. He introduced several witnesses to prove that he had been hard at work for some time past trying to earn an honest living by canvassing for a sewing machine agency, and Judge Moreland reserved his decision in the matter, several police officers having testified that Dobyan loitered away much of his time on the streets. Later on Walter Keyes made a complaint against Dobyan charging him with having stolen a watch from Keyes, when he was "working" for the latter. Upon this second and more serious charge he will have an examination in the police court to-day.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The mother of Chas. P. Church, of Sibson, Church & Co., who was living with her son-in-law, Judge L. Flinn of Albany, died suddenly Monday night of heart disease. She was 61 years old, and for the past year had been enjoying remarkable good health. Death came upon her while she was sitting in her chair. The first warning to her friends was her falling upon the floor, already lifeless. She had lived in Oregon over twenty-five years, and her acts of charity and benevolence were many and are well remembered. Relatives and friends in this city went to Albany last night to attend her funeral to-day.

BUILDING A NEW CHURCH.—Messrs. Kelly and Levins of Pleasant Home, Powell's valley, were in the city yesterday purchasing hardware, glass, etc., for a new union church to be erected there. Pleasant Home is about twenty miles from this city, in the southeast part of Multnomah county. The church will be 28x50 feet in size, and will cost something over $1600. It will have a handsome bell tower, will be neatly painted, and altogether an attractive building. It is being built by private contributions. The material is now on the ground, and the work will be pushed steadily to completion.

ASSIGNMENT.—The firm of Hoe Sing, consisting of N. W. Gow and Ah Goon, who failed recently, yesterday made an assignment to D. P. Kennedy for the benefit of their creditors. Of the stock and fixtures in their store, at 60 Second street, $2000 worth are held by S. H. Frank & Co. as security for a claim of $1160.85. The remaining value of assets is about $2500, and their total liabilities about $3000. The principal creditors, aside from Frank & Co., are Bradley & Doheny $433.77; Geo. H. Hibbard & Co., $268.20; and Terrence Rodgers, $424.05.

USEFUL WORK.—Since Captain Felix Martin was assigned to the special duty of watching for cases of cruelty to animals and the abatement of nuisances, 170 cases under the latter head have been brought to his notice and have received prompt attention. He is still busily engaged in forcing property owners and tenants to comply with the ordinances relating to public health, and numerous nuisances have been abated under his direction. He has made an impartial and faithful officer.

FRUIT AS IS FRUIT.—THE OREGONIAN acknowledges the receipt of a box of strawberries from Mr. J. M. Leavens, which were grown on Knight's farm, on the Columbia river, near La Camas. Except occasionally a berry which needed about one day's sunshine to fully ripen it, the lot equaled in size, flavor and soundness the finest seen here last year. More than twenty of the lot weighed over two ounces each.

SUSPICIOUS EXTRAVAGANCE.—Isaac Keyser, a car-

OREGON STATE MEDICAL SOCIETY.

Their Annual Session Begun in this City Yesterday Afternoon—Interesting Papers upon Special Subjects.

The eleventh annual session of the Oregon State Medical Society convened in Temperance hall, over Prentice's music store, yesterday afternoon, the president, Dr. W. H. Saylor, taking the chair. At roll call the following were present: Drs. James Brown, A. G. Avery, S. Binswanger, A. J. Nicklin, W. H. Saylor, E. P. Fraser, J. W. Givens, B. A. Owens, W. H. Watkins, G. C. Lane, E. M. Wells, S. E. Josephi, J. W. Norris, F. B. Eaton, R. Glisan and Wm. Jones. During the course of the afternoon several others came in.

Dr. Wells welcomed the society to Portland in a well written, entertaining address. The report of the executive board and the election of new members was postponed, to be the first order of business to-day.

A large number of communications to the society were read and referred to the executive board.

Upon motion it was resolved that an obituary committee, consisting of five members be appointed to act during the coming year.

Dr. William Jones then read a paper before the society it being a report of an interesting case of lateral lithotomy. Dr. Givens moved that Dr. Watkins be asked to open the discussion upon the paper, which he did. Drs. Avery, Glisan, Brown and Wells also joined in the discussion at some length. Upon motion the paper was referred to the executive board for publication.

Dr. Owens read a paper upon "Hygienic and prenatal influences," which called out considerable discussion, and was afterward also referred to the executive board.

The society then adjourned, to meet this morning at the same place at 10 o'clock. After the report of the board and the election of new members, the following programme will be taken up by the society:

Election of officers.

Paper, entitled "Orbital Cellulitis and Periostitis as Sequela of Constitutional Diseases," with cases, by F. B. Eaton, M. D.

Paper on mal-assimilation, the prime cause of disease, by A. J. Nicklin, M. D.

Paper on diseases of joints, by Holt C. Wilson, M. D.

Paper on diseases incident to pregnancy, by Jennie L. Parrish, M. D.

Paper on chronic nasal catarrh, by J. Tuttle, M. D.

BRIEF MENTION.

Wells, Fargo & Co. have opened an office at Troutdale.

The Gipsy will sail Saturday evening for Gray's Harbor.

James Doherty, arrested for interfering with an officer, is not the plumber of the same name.

By order of the United States circuit court the sale of the ferryboat Altona was yesterday postponed twenty days.

The grand jury met again yesterday but no indictments were returned. Several minor cases were partially examined.

The examination of B. J. Forbes, before Justice Davis, has been continued a week to await the action of the grand jury in the case against F. A. Howard.

Charles Miller, a negro boy aged 15, was arrested last night for stealing a quantity of lead pipe from the residence of Mrs. Talbot, on Second street near Madison.

The Snake at Riparia rose three inches yesterday; the Columbia rose six inches at Umatilla and fell seven inches at Bonneville. The Willamette rose three inches here.

The taking of testimony in the salvage suit against the Queen of the Pacific will be resumed to-day. It is expected that a decision in the matter will be reached before long.

A large quantity of the damaged stock of Feldman & Co. was disposed of yesterday. The best part of the stock remains and the sale will be continued to-day, commencing at 10 o'clock.

The foundations of the paper mill at La Camas were finished yesterday. Fifty men have been employed on it and about 2000 perch of stone have been laid. Framing of the buildings will be commenced at once.

At the convention of Castle lodge, No. 11, Knights of Pythias, last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: L. Cohen, C. C.; Oscar L. Oley, V. C.; J. C. S. Richardson, P.; and J. G. O'Dea, M. at A.

The case against Theo. Liebe, charged with assault and battery upon John Rudolff, was yesterday dismissed in the police court, the trouble having arisen from a slight misunderstanding between the two men, which was afterward amicably settled.

The team attached to one of John Lancaster & Co.'s trucks, upon which was loaded part of a threshing machine, ran away yesterday at the corner of First and Madison streets. A telegraph pole stopped them, the wagon tongue being broken and some of the threshing machine smashed.

Jacob Miller, for many years engaged in the livery business here and familiarly known to most old citizens as Uncle Jake, is in very feeble health at Walla Walla and a number of his friends here are making up a purse to send the old man to Pennsylvania, where he has a brother and sister residing.

THE EAST SIDE.

UNFOUNDED COMPLAINT.

The item published yesterday concerning the new regulations of the Stark street ferry company contained no inference they were adopted principally in the interest of the retail dealers of East Portland no matter what construction unreasonable or querulous persons may put upon it. No reasonable person could suppose the company so short-sighted as to run the ferry in the interest of any one class to the detriment of another. The new regulations are equitable and just to all parties alike, much more so than those heretofore in vogue, and if the retail dealers of East Portland benefit by them it will be no fault of the company, whose object is to treat everyone alike.

BIDS FOR IRON WORK.

Bids on the iron work for the Cully three story brick were opened by Mr. D. D. Neer architect, at his office in Portland yesterday and are as follows: —Honeyman, $1719; Frank Payne, $1730; Portland Iron Works, $1790; Willamette Iron Works, $1375; Union Iron Works, $2037; Smith Bros. & Watson, $2133.

ELECTION K. OF P.

The semi-annual election of officers of Phalanx lodge No. 14, Knights of Pythias, occurred last evening, resulting as follows: Chance for commander, Dr. D. M. Eddy vice chancellor, J. A. Newell; chaplain, P. G. Magness; master at arms, H. C. Wood. Installation occurs at the first meeting in July, being also the first of the new term.

NOTES.

Officer Jordan has been transferred from day to night duty.

Robert Allen is on a visit from Seattle, where he is now engaged in business.

Remember the "Peak Sisters" to-night. Reserved seats can be had at Welch Bros.' drug store.

Flowers for Decoration day may be left at Ross & Story's hall or J. A. Newell's store, where they will be collected by members of the Grand Army.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Z. J. Hatch has gone to Coeur d'Alene for a week or two days.

Mrs. M. M. Southworth, injured by a fall a few days ago, is suffering a great deal and is not improving as her friends could hope.

A. B. Steinbach of the firm of Kohn & Steinbach, is a passenger on the incoming steamer, and will hereafter reside here permanently.

Mr. H. C. Fox, of Bickreal, combines business with pleasure on a visit to Portland. He brings his bride with him for a few days' sojourn at the metropolis.

Lieutenant Schwatka left on the steamer last night en route to join his regiment in Arizona, having resigned from Gen. Miles' staff in March, and the orders resulting therefrom having been but lately received. We will see him back in a month or two, as he is an important witness in a prospective suit.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE,

Advantageous in Dyspepsia.

Dr. G. V. Dorsey, Piqua, Ohio, says: "I have used it in dyspepsia with very marked benefit. If there is deficiency of acid in the stomach, nothing affords more relief, while the action on the nervous system is decidedly beneficial."

WAS IT ALL A DREAM?

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

Last evening I sat in my large, easy chair and dreamily reviewed the past. I saw the day that I worked so earnestly in support of the "regular" ticket at the primaries, and remembered my delight when the large majority for it was announced. I remembered, too, that Jack took me into an upper chamber where Jeff stood in waiting. There, around a small table we gathered and talked over the situation. Jeff agreed to supply the democratic party, body and soul, if Jack would manipulate the independent republicans, and they would divide the spoils equally. Then they compared accounts; each produced a list of names, carefully prepared and marked. Said Jack to Jeff, "I've seen every man on my list, and without exception they will do exactly as I say." "Put 'er there," said Jeff, extending his hand, "I can say the same of all mine, too." Then they went to work, taking name by name, talking it over and writing it down, until both lists were exhausted, when they sat back and commented on the convention as now arranged, prepared the list of officers and committees and decided who should call the meeting to order, who should move a temporary organization, and, in fact, arranged matters down to the smallest details. Then they notified the proper persons that they were elected delegates to the "kickers' convention." Ring, ring, ring rang in my ears from that moment, affording me no peace of mind, for I remembered the primary election to which everybody was invited and I remembered, too, that in this case there was not even a show of primaries, but all was cut and dried—and the ring was about my neck. Then I closed my eyes and seemed to pass through a woody marsh, filled with vines and creeping reptiles. All vegetation seemed covered with moss and moisture and as the night came on I became filled with an uncontrollable horror. Suddenly I discovered that I was in the midst of an immense graveyard deserted, neglected and gone to ruin. Almost without exception the graves seemed torn open, and grinning skeletons and putrid bodies lay all around me. Looking to one side a strange sight greeted my eye. On a flat, soggy spot stood a monument, yes, a genuine monument. It appeared to have been constructed from the staves of a barrel, on some of which large letters were plainly distinguished. I at once set about to interpret their meaning. On one I found "ur," on another "is," on another "Wh," on another "bon," on another "Bo," on another "key," and taken together they spelled "Bourbon Whisky." Surmounting all this was the figure of a large black crow, holding in its bill a monstrous ring, in the center of which was suspended a clumsy, heavy, soggy piece of bread and butter, but while I looked the bread fell to the ground, butter side down.

The grave was a study in itself. Muddy, trampled over and torn, was the very picture of neglect. When any roach in its side I saw a ghoul slip up and glance down through a pipe that projected from the top. Imitating his example, I was startled at the sight beneath. There in plain view was a large stone vault, around the center of which was gathered a group of horrid hobgoblins, presided over by the devil in person, who held in his hand an immense frying pan that seemed to contain a corpse, and as it sizzled and spat and popped and burned I could not notice how viciously it kicked and rolled and tumbled, and thought it strange that it did not fall into the fire. The devil seemed to anticipate my fears, for he closed one eye, placed his hand to his mouth, threw his head to one side, looked up to me, then pointed to the pan and said, "He's a kicker, he is." And sure enough pinned to the lappel of his coat was a telegraphic dispatch all smeared over with bread and butter.

Suddenly a change came over the spirit of my dream, for at this point what had seemed the dead body of a man bounded to the floor and began kicking the solid stone wall, and to my astonishment it had changed to the form of a fully developed ass with long ears and shaven tail. The devil seemed to enjoy it immensely, for he laughed heartily and exclaimed, "That's Jack, my Jack!" But he became somewhat enraged when Jack kicked and utterly destroyed a fine engraving that hung on the wall entitled, "After the election of '76," and showing a large brickyard with 380 Chinamen employed—for the devil loved that picture dearly. Turning to leave so strange a sight, my eye fell on this epitaph:

"Pause, mourner,
In this lone corner,
No spot forlorner,
Lies a goner,
Once a reformer,
June 3, 1884."

MISS WILLARD AND MRS. FOSTER.

FOREST GROVE, May 26.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

Miss Willard won all hearts during her visit to this state last summer. Her gracious words, her high purpose, her perfect Christian ladyhood won such favor for her cause as it had not gained before. She passed, and all said, "we shall not see her like again." Very true, there is but one Miss Willard; but do not, dear Oregonians, think there is no other woman but Miss Willard, no other Christian temperance orator. Another will soon be in your midst —Mrs. Judith Ellen Foster, a lawyer from Iowa. Comparisons are odious. If I say a word for Mrs. Foster, I do not speak against Miss Willard. Mrs. Foster is young, attractive, eloquent, argumentative, funny. When in Boston, as she has been frequently, Tremont temple, which seats 3500, will not hold the crowds that come to hear her. Nobody but Mrs. Mary A. Livermore draws such audiences in the east as she does. Portland will do itself an injustice if it does not fill the largest audience room in the city every time this gifted and charming Christian lady speaks.

Philadelphia Call.

"The sheriff will be here to-morrow, and everything we have will be swept away," and he bowed his head in his hands and groaned aloud. The patient little wife went softly to the bureau drawer, and taking therefrom $80,000, which she had saved from her household expenses, placed the package quietly at his feet. Half an hour later the mortgage was paid, and the man was around the corner playing seven up for the beer.

It is announced that General Roger A. Pryor has been blackballed by the New York bar association, and in the absence of more definite information regarding the cause, it may be suspected that it was because he accepted too low a fee for his services in defending O'Donnell to meet the professional requirements of opportunity.

THE DAY OF PRAYER.

Pursuant to notice previously given, a meeting for prayer was held by the ladies of the W. C. T. Union of this city, as appointed by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the United States. At a meeting of the pastors of the city churches, called last week and presided over by Dr. A. L. Lindsley, a programme of exercises and an assignment of service were made for this meeting.

Rev. G. W. Izer opened the services at 10 A. M., and conducted the meeting from 10 to 11 A. M. He took for his subject the joint action and relation of God and man in all the moral reforms and great religious movements of the world. He set forth the great fact too often overlooked or forgotten, that "The battle is the Lord's." These points he fortified from the scriptures.

Chaplain Stubbs led the meeting from 11 to 12. He read from the book of Daniel and St. Paul's first letter to Timothy, in which were set forth Daniel's confession of the sins of the rulers and the apostle's injunction that prayer should be made for rulers and others. He took for his subject the united responsibility of all members of society for its moral and religious condition. He dwelt especially on the great responsibility of pastors and editors, and the duty and need of praying for them.

At 1 P. M. Rev. J. Q. A. Henry, pastor of the Baptist church, led the meeting for one hour, and was followed by Rev. E. C. Sharpe, the pastor of the Christian church. The closing hour was conducted by Rev. Mr. West.

The subject of the second hour, by Rev. E. C. Sharpe, was "The duty of praying and voting for rulers." He said he should cast his first vote for president at the next general election, and he hoped to be able to vote for some one worthy of the high position of president. His address was excellent.

Rev. Mr. West was called on quite unexpectedly to supply the part assigned to Rev. E. T. Lee. His remarks were a forcible presentation of the power of prayer, as illustrated on Mount Carmel in the presence of the priests of Baal.

Many of the ladies participated during the day, and altogether the meetings were very satisfactory.

A Big Clip.

S. F. Breeder and Sportsman.

The spring clip of 130 000 sheep belonging to Miller & Lux has just been shorn at Firebaugh's ferry, Fresno county, and the wool is being brought to this city for shipment. Eight car loads were shipped Saturday, and twenty-four more will be brought down as fast as Captain Hamilton can handle it. The wool goes by the southern route to New Orleans, thence to Boston. Miller & Lux this year employed ninety men as shearers. They clipped 4000 sheep per day. The fleeces were of a year's growth, and averaged about eight pounds, or over one million pounds of wool for the company.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 28, 1884.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY, May 27.

Showery weather this morning gave way to clearing at noon, and the indications are that the storm is well over. A rising barometer with west and northwest winds promise clear weather. The rain has been of great benefit to root crops, all fields having been visited. Small crops, so far as can now be seen, are apparently unhurt, but are retarded. Throughout the eastern section a few fields were in great need of rain, and with many others it was a question of a short time as to feeling the same need. A little rain will go a long ways with them at this time. The valley will need an occasional shower, for the protection afforded last summer by smoke cannot be counted upon this year. As a whole, crops are still furnishing ground for the expectation that a full yield will be had. Californ[ia] fields are in excellent condition, and there is really little evidence that any injury was sustained by the heavy spring rains. So forward is the wheat that the next thirty days will see harvesting well under way, and new wheat is expected in quantity before the 1st of July.

The stage of water at 8:30 A. M. compares as follows:

	Tuesday.	Monday.
Riparia	14 ft 3¼ in	14 ft 2¾ in
Umatilla	21 ft	20 ft 6 in

Last shipments east by rail, were 600 cs, by J Hume; 325, by Booth; 875 by Union Pkg Co; 675, by Aberdeen Pkg Co.

FREIGHTS—The market is slow but steady. No transactions reported, although a spot vessel is rumored closed for wheat.

WHEAT—English markets are weaker as compared with yesterday. Chicago recovered yesterday's decline, and San Francisco is tending downward, with almost nothing doing. The local market is without change, all operators holding back.

OATS—The market is slow and without change. Quote 46@48c for fair to choice feed lots.

POTATOES—Consignments bring 90@$1 per cental for common, and in a small way $1 10 for choice.

PROVISIONS—Eastern hams in larger receipt. Market generally quiet but steady for good qualities. We quote: Bacon, 11½@12½c; country cured hams, 13@14c; best local cured, 16@17c; eastern, 16½@17c; shoulders, 8@9c. Lard quiet. Best local in tins, 10@13½; common do, 12c; kegs, 11@12c; eastern pailed, 11½@12c for best. The Chicago provision market is irregular but higher to-day.

DRIED FRUIT—Eastern apples in full stock. We quote: Sun dried apples, 9@10c; factory cured, in boxes, 15@16c; eastern, in barrels 10c; pears, in boxes, sliced, 15c; plums, in boxes, 16c, and sun dried, in other packages, 13@16c; peaches in sacks, 13@14c; Oregon prunes, 12c; others, 8@9½c; figs, [illegible]. Raisins show an advancing tendency at $1 75@2 per full box.

FRUIT—Receipts include 100 cs lemons by rail. Quotations are without change, but New York reports a substantial advance. Strawberries selling at 25@30c; gooseberries, 3@3½c; bananas and oranges slow sale.

POULTRY—Chickens are a trifle firmer, but the request is not large enough to advance prices. Selling prices are $4 50@5 50. Other kinds in small business.

EGGS—Receipts larger and values weak at 20c.

WOOL—Receipts free, with considerable going into the steamer sailing to-night. The market is without change.

Hallowell & Coburn, Boston, May 19, say: "The demand for all kinds of wool is now very light indeed, prices are naturally weak, and it is essentially a buyer's market. Quite a number of mills are shut down, a great many are running short time and curtailing production all they know how. Woolen goods are not selling to any extent, and we are threatened with the stoppage of still more machinery unless there is a change for the better in the demand for woolen goods; and add to all this the local financial troubles in New York City, and it would seem that this was a good season to buy wool cheap, and to buy it as it should be bought, getting in all cases proper reductions on all unwashed and unmerchantable fleeces in the case of washed wools, and on black, burry, cotted fleeces and tags in all descriptions of wool. "An article well bought is half sold" is as true of wool as almost anything we can think of. There is a large stock of fine Australian wool on the market, which at the present time cannot be sold at cost. The supply of inferior California and territory wool is also larger than usual at this time of the year, but in other grades the stock is only moderate, and in the case of combing wools, we may say there are none here, and early shipments will probably be wanted on arrival. Reports from California and Texas would indicate that growers were demanding higher prices than buyers are willing to pay, but as little has yet been done, we presume that the growers will soon appreciate the situation, and see the wisdom of having their wools in market and sold before the later shearing of the territories and the older wool growing states. Manufacturers claim that they must have the fine free wools of these states at an average of 55c scoured at their mills, and only pay 60c for the choicest long staple clips, while the short and defective ones must come down to 45 and 50c. Medium wools do not hold the relatively high position that they have for some years, and must be sold very low. From present appearances the washed wools of Michigan and Wisconsin should be bought at 25c., and Ohio and Pennsylvania at 27 to 28c."

SHIPPING NOTES.

The State of California sails to-night, and the Columbia will be due to-morrow.

Schooners Aurora and Sailor Boy are in the river for lumber cargoes. This is their first trip to the Columbia.

The charter of the British steamer Bell Rock, at San Francisco, has finally been signed.

A late rumor to-day has the British iron ship Pythonia chartered. Confirmation of the rumor could not be had, but a charter has doubtless been written.

John Roach & Son launched on May 15th the iron steamer City of Topeka, for the Topeka and Santa Fe railway company. The vessel is 218½ feet long, 35 feet beam and 18 feet hold.

The dome steamer Meteor, which was built to cross the Atlantic in five days, has been taken from Boston to Bath, and it is said that the Goss marine iron works will try to make her engine work at the latter place.

Goss & Sawyer and Goss, Sawyer & Packard, the well known shipbuilders of Bath, Me., have consolidated their interests, and now carry on their extensive business under the name and title of the New England Shipbuilding Company.

The steamer Yaquina cleared from San Francisco for Yaquina Bay to-day, and will probably sail to-morrow. Regular 4th of July arrangements are being made to receive her. As she crosses the bar, a photographer is to attempt a picture of her, and the small craft will escort her up the bay.

WIND AS A MOTOR.

A Pneumatic Tube Nearly One Hundred Miles in Length.

Chicago Tribune.

The canal commissioners have granted the privilege to Mr J. W. Beach of this city to lay a pneumatic tube along the line of the Illinois and Michigan Central canal from Chicago to La Salle. The invention was patented by Mr. Beach in November, 1881, and he made arrangements with a railroad company to put it in operation along the line of its tracks, but for some reason this right was afterward denied. The enterprise which Mr. Beach proposes to incorporate will be known as the Pneumatic Transportation Company, which will be composed, he says, of substantial capitalists. It is the intention to transport not only packages and letters, but also grain. Mr. Beach is very sanguine as to the success of his project, and says that eventually he will extend his lines to St. Louis by way of Peoria and Springfield. The tube between here and La Salle will be ninety-nine miles in length, and seventeen inches in diameter. The motor will be compressed air, and the inventor claims that a speed of ten miles a minute can be attained. Both points from which the material is sent are to be provided with a device which will force the air into the tube at a pressure of 100 pounds or more to the square inch, and at either end will be attached a receiver, a little distance from which a break will be arranged in the pipe, so as to break the force of the article when received. Provisions are made for receiving the matter at intermediate points by disjointing the tubes, both ends being enclosed in an air tight receiver. Regular time tables will be arranged, and at the start but one tube will be in operation. Mr. Beach proposes to organize his company as soon as possible and begin operations.

He has received a letter from Westminster, England, which states that a similar tube between the house of commons and the central telegraph office—a distance of two miles—has been in successful operation for some time.

SPRING

Is the season in which bad or poisoned blood is most apt to show itself. Nature, at this juncture, needs something to assist it in throwing off the impurities which have collected by the sluggish circulation of the blood during the cold winter months. Swift's Specific is nature's great helper, as it is a purely vegetable alterative and tonic.

Rev. L. B. Payne, Macon, Ga., writes: "We have been using Swift's Specific at the orphans' home as a remedy for blood complaints, and as a general health tonic and have had remarkable results from its use on the children and employes of the institution. It is such an excellent tonic, and keeps the blood so pure that the system is less liable to disease. It has cured some of our children of scrofula."

W. H. Gilbert, druggist, Albany, Ga., writes: "We are selling large quantities of Swift's Specific for a spring alterative and general health tonic, and with the best results. It is now largely used as a preventive and cure for Malaria. There are many remarkable evidences of its merit in this section."

The Great Drug House of Chicago.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) than all other Blood Purifiers combined, and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used a half dozen bottles says it did him more good than treatment which cost him $1000. Another who has used it for a Scrofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use.

One gentleman who had been confined to his bed six weeks with Mercurial Rheumatism has been cured entirely, and speaks in the highest praise of S. S. S.
